Generations of university students from all over South Australia, as well as interstate and overseas, have benefited the unique combination of advantages that collegiate life at Aquinas offers. The College has long had an especially strong relationship with Mount Gambier and the south-east of the State.

Brother Mark Paul, from the College staff will be visiting Tenison Woods College on 22nd and 23rd March to meet with students and parents who are interested in 2019 enrolments. There will be a presentation and Q&A on the Thursday evening at 7.00pm, and opportunity for individual interviews with Year 12 students on the Friday.

Aquinians value so much about their College – its caring and experienced staff, its Christian values and practices, its pastoral care, its tutorial programme and academic support strategies, its facilities, its sporting and cultural offerings, its outreach and service opportunities, and its beautiful location and proximity to universities and the city. But most of all they treasure the sense of family that exists and the enriching friendships they develop, many of which last for a lifetime.

The College provides accommodation for the full academic year (including breaks), three meals a day, weekly cleaning, linen service, free laundry facilities, free high-speed internet access. It boasts attractive heritage and contemporary spaces that include study and tutorial rooms, common rooms, a chapel, court and gym, and music room. It aims to create a community where students can enter their tertiary studies with confidence and purpose, and where, as young adults, they can thrive in mind, heart and spirit.

The best way to really find out about Aquinas is to ask an Aquinian. They will tell why their choice of Aquinas was one of the best decisions of their lives.
